Our Community History

By Nancy Levin, Director

In January, we launched a local history web page, designed to provide members of the community with access to local history information and resources, both online and physical.

The web page is the culmination of years of work that began in 2015, when the Library created the local history librarian position to focus resources on preserving local history—especially the Library’s, as it prepared for its 2016 centennial by digitizing its own organizational records, news articles, and photographs.

Once the Library’s history had been sufficiently documented, we began curating more generalized local history resources to share with the community. The resources include websites for the Cuyahoga County Auditor’s office, Cuyahoga County archives, the Cleveland Memory Project, and the archives of the Cleveland Heights-University Heights City School district, also known as the Alvin Gray Archives; and physical collections at the Lee Road branch like city directories and reference copies of View from the Overlook, the newsletter of the Cleveland Heights Historical Society.

All these resources already existed, but we’ve made them more accessible by organizing them on one page on our website. Part of the Library’s mission is to not only provide information but to make that information easy to find.

In addition to its online and physical reference materials, the Library is also helping preserve community history by supporting the efforts of the Cleveland Heights Historical Society, City of Cleveland Heights Landmark Commission, and Cleveland Heights Historical Center at Superior Schoolhouse by hosting and promoting local history programs.

More information can be found at www.heightslibrary.org/local-history.

T H E A T R E

THE EFFECT

Written by Lucy Prebble
Directed by Laley Lippard

Connie and Tristan are volunteers in a clinical drug trial, but when they begin a sudden and illicit romance they must ask themselves: is theirs a palpable chemistry - or is it a side effect of the new antidepressant being tested? As their relationship forces the supervising doctors to face off over the ethical consequences of their work, the story begins to unwind in a script that plays like a thriller.

March 2 - 25

APPROPRIATE

Written by Branden Jacobs-Jenkins
Directed by Nathan Motta

When the patriarch of the Lafayette clan dies, the family is forced to descend upon the crumbling Arkansas homestead to settle accounts. As the three adult children rummage through a mountain of hoarded relics, they spar over a lifetime of junk, past relationship issues, and inherited debts. But when they make a disturbing discovery among their father's possessions, the reunion takes a turn for the volatile, forcing every member to confront their family history and each other.
