

More Jewish Teen Fiction

Curtain Call

M. Jakubowicz

When production rolls around at Bais Breindel, tenth graders Brachie and Atara find themselves vying for the coveted main part in the play. But things don't pan out as either girl expected, and instead they find themselves playing roles they never could have envisioned.

Midnight Music

Menucha Chana Levin

Tehilla and Galia are two girls struggling with new experiences—but can their mutual love of music help them build a true friendship?

Over the Gate

Bracha Rosman

Layla has only a long, lonely summer to look forward to in the isolated vacation home her parents have rented. But in the mysterious woods behind the house, the effects of a tragic secret are about to erupt.

The Secret of the Woods

M. Jakubowicz

Ari and his friends are sure there is something fishy going on, between the mysterious man in the basement of Ari's home, an attempted mugging, and diamond thieves. Can they solve the mystery?

U Turn

Chaya Sara ben Shachar

When Margaret and Julie Miller plummet down the ravine in a horrible car accident, their lives are irrevocably changed. How will their family and friends cope with all of the changes?

continued on back

Alone in Africa

Avigail Sharer

When their plane makes a harrowing emergency landing in the African rainforest, Nesanel, Penina, and Chezky are separated from their fellow passengers and find themselves stranded and alone...

More than Meets the Eye

Avigail Sharer

It's not easy moving to a new country, and for Michael, whose family moved from England to America all because of his sister Rikki's Cerebral Palsy, life seems to be going from bad to worse, even before terrifying criminal activity starts to happen in Rikki's special school.

Swords and Scrolls

Yehudis Litvak

It's not easy being a teenager in Eretz Yisrael in the days of King Antiochus. Elisha is curious about the mysterious new building in Yerushalayim, while Rivka is suspicious of the changes that threaten to disturb her peaceful existence. Will Rivka have the courage to stand up for her beliefs and will Elisha win the battle raging in his soul?

Journey to the End of the Earth

Devorah Rand

Amsterdam, 1649...A young refugee escapes the pogroms of Lublin harboring a powerful secret, meets the noted scholar Rabbi Menashe ben Israel, and gets swept up in his yearning for Moshiach and his vision for a Jewish settlement in England.

Learning Curve – Sarah Raizel & Ilana Pollack

Brilliant Yehudis Tannenbaum aces her courses and is the class genius, pestered for help before every test. But is her brain all that anyone can see in her – even her good friend, Tova?

